'Americanism' Wearing Hood Shows New Life

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ku Klux Klan, a sprawling giant of the 1920's that nearly choked to death two decades later on its own violent dedication to "Americanism," is getting new life from the growing civil rights movement in the South.

Dr. Richard M. Chalmers, a University of Florida professor and author of a new book on the Klan's secret world of mystic rituals, strange passwords and hooded violence, argues that a decaying Klan was given new "impetus and environment for action" by two events:

The Supreme Court's May 17, 1954, decision outlawing public school segregation, and the sit-ins, freedom rides and mass demonstrations of the early 1960's.

A number of other observers have pointed to a very recent rise in Klan membership, now believed to number 30,000 to 35,000 active Klansmen with up to 20,000 active sympathizers, mainly in the Deep South.

Klan officials say their influence has been increasing steadily since the current civil rights struggle began. James Venable, Atlanta attorney and imperial wizard of the National Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, estimates growth at 1,000 to 12,000 new members a month.

"We try to weed out undesirable, our purpose is not to collect hoodlums," Venable said. "We're trying to get the sweat box people in. Educated people have been brainwashed into believing in brotherly love — in peaceful coexistence."

Chalmers says in his book, "Hooded Americanism," which is to be published by Doubleday, that one inherent defect in Klan structure that may have prevented it from becoming even more of an influence is the impossibility of controlling the actions of individual branches.

Today's Klan, actually a number of separate Klans, has most influence in small cities and rural areas, usually those with a high percentage of Negroes.

But 40 years ago, it was a giant of four million members that elected governors and senators, both in the North and South.

Born as a society of playful pranks and mystic initiations in 1865, one year after the Civil War ended, the Klan soon turned to a major role in the overthrow of carpetbag state governments in the South and the restoration of white supremacy.

By 1871, the estimated 550,000 Klansmen disappeared as a formal organization. President Ulysses S. Grant, under the Ku Klux Klan Act of 1871, suspended the writ of habeas corpus in nine South Carolina counties, and thousands of Klansmen were arrested.

Another Klan did not appear until 1915, when the organization was resurrected on top of Stone Mountain, Ga., with the burning of a cross and an oath of allegiance to the "invisible empire of the Ku Klux Klan."

By 1924, it had become a national political power, with four million members dedicated to opposing not only Negroes, but Catholics, Jews, and anyone who was not a native-born, Anglo-Saxon Protestant.

But, by the beginning of the depression, the Klan's power and glory were gone in the North and West.

The third Ku Klux Klan revival was organized in Atlanta late in World War II by an Atlanta obstetrician, Dr. Samuel Green. It had a brief period of activity, but splintered after Green's death in 1949.

Income Tax Biting Hard This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Income tax is biting so hard this year you can see the marks.

Some banks are reporting an unusually large number of personal loans. The reason, no secret: money needed to pay taxes.

The Internal Revenue Service has noticed a significant slowdown in the flow of tax returns. The reason, presumed but obvious: more people than usual are waiting until the last minute — April 15 — because they have to send money in.

A lot of families which are used to getting refunds in the spring haven't got any this year. The reason, the same one that is behind most of this year's more than usual tax distress: last year's under-withholding.

And yet, ironically, a larger percentage of those taxpayers who have filed their returns are making errors in favor of the government.

When pay check deductions were reduced in March 1964 from 18 per cent to 14 per cent following enactment of an $11 billion tax cut, the largest in history, Johnson administration officials recognized that some taxpayers who earn from $7,500 to $20,000 wouldn't be fully covered by withholding.

The withholding rate was set a little low to put more money in the spending stream and thereby pep up the economy.

Soviet Hikes Investment In Its Farming Industry

MOSCOW (AP) —The Soviet Union announced plans Friday to combat what it called "serious shortcomings and errors in agricultural management during the past few years." It put new men in top government and Communist party posts to carry them out.

The main features of the new program are a massive investment in farm mechanization and higher payments to farmers without price increases to consumers.

The Communist party's first secretary, Leonid Brezhnev, who presented the program to the party's Central Committee, said the money would come from "redistribution within the state budget."

He also called for "wider use of economic and moral incentives" in collective and state farms which he said "should be allowed greater independence in economic activities."

Brezhnev said this would raise the role and responsibilities of local officials and increase the role of agricultural specialists.

Brezhnev was critical of farm policies under former Premier Nikita Khrushchev, the man whom he and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin replaced in October 1964.

He did not name Khrushchev but said the gross farm output had increased only 10 per cent during the last six years although it had been scheduled to go up by 70 per cent during the current seven-year plan which ends this year.

The new plans call for a total investment in agriculture of 71 billion rubles — $78.89 billion — in the next five years, which Brezhnev said is as much as was invested in Soviet farming during the past 19 years.

Abbott's Girl Friend Says She Lied at His Trial

CINCINNATI (AP) — Armed with a sworn admission that Robert Ray Abbott's fiancée lied at the trial in which he was convicted of first-degree murder, the Dayton, Ky., man's attorneys prepared today to move for a new trial.

Harry H. McIlwain, Abbott's chief counsel, said one of the motions for a retrial would be based on "new evidence" in the sworn statement by Alice Ewing, 22, Fort Thomas, Ky., who was to have married Abbott next Thursday.

The other motion, McIlwain said, was based on numerous alleged errors during Abbott's two-week trial in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

A jury convicted Abbott, 21, on Wednesday of slaying Wanda Cook, 24, a Bellevue, Ky., nurse, in a downtown Cincinnati hotel room last Oct. 15. The jury recommended mercy, making mandatory a sentence of life imprisonment.

Miss Cook's body was placed in a large trunk checked as baggage on a train to Cleveland.

Mystery Gas Used by Thugs

CLEVELAND (AP) — Three men incapacitated an elderly East Side couple with a mysterious gas and then tried to rob them, police reported.

The trio fled empty-handed Friday after ransacking the real estate office and second-floor apartment of Silvester Szilvasy, 79, and scuffling with a tenant, Alfred Curry.

Curry was unaffected by a squirt of the gas from a pistol by one of the intruders, police said.

Officers said the gas used on the two men and Mrs. Szilvasy, 69, smelled like ether.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. Szilvasy were unconscious several minutes, but were not hospitalized.

The trunk was opened there Oct. 21.

McIlwain said Miss Ewing came to his office Friday of her own free will and told a story differing in some respects from what she had said as star witness for the prosecution.

But she remained firm on one point—that she did not kill Miss Cook out of jealousy, as the defense contended during Abbott's trial.

When McIlwain said, "I will ask you whether or not you shot Wanda Cook up in the hotel room?" she replied: "My answer, of course, is no."

Prosecutor Melvin G. Rueger was out of town, but his assistant, Calvin Prem said he was unimpressed by the statement.

"She is so emotionally involved with Robert Abbott that nothing she does is really surprising," Prem told newsmen.

The prosecution contended Abbott lured Miss Cook to the hotel room and killed her when she resisted his advances.

Miss Ewing faces trial in Police Court for illegally moving a dead body. The charge is a misdemeanor that carries maximum punishment of a $500 fine and six months in the workhouse.

In her statement, Miss Ewing admitted she had made a date to spend the night of Oct. 15 at a downtown hotel, and said she had earlier gone to hotels with her fiancée. She also said Abbott did not have the key to the glove compartment of her car where the murder gun was kept.

When McIlwain asked if she had the gun in her purse that day, Miss Ewing said she would not answer.

Alabama May Seek Murder Indictments

House Passes Education Bill

Republicans Show Stiff Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House overcame bitter bickering last night to pass the controversial $1.3 billion school aid bill.

The 263-153 vote gave President Johnson his biggest legislative victory of the session.

The party lineup: 228 Democrats and 35 Republicans for the measure; 57 Democrats and 96 Republicans against.

All 10 Buckeye Democratic congressmen voted for the Administration-backed measure. Of the 14 Ohio Republicans, 12 voted against the bill and the other two (Ayres and Mosher) were recorded against though not actually voting.

The bill, aimed primarily at helping school districts which serve children from impoverished families, now moves to the Senate where Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana predicts quick action.

House opponents used parliamentary devices and time-consuming votes to delay final action.

At one point, Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., charged: "This isn't going to be an education act; it's going to be the railroad act of 1965."

Goodell also accused the administration forces of glossing over the bill's impact on parochial schools.

The measure contains provisions which would allow private school students to take advantage of the federal aid.

Sponsors of the legislation predict that at least 90 per cent of the nation's 25,991 school districts will benefit from it.

The major provision of the bill authorizes $1.06 billion in aid next year based on a formula keyed to the number of children in each district from families with incomes of $2,000 or less.

And additional factor, added in the House Education Committee, would allow aid for welfare families, even though their incomes exceed $2,000.

The aid under this title would go entirely to public schools. But some of the programs they device to help the disadvantaged children also would cover pupils in private schools.

New Soviet Rap at U.S. Fouls Up U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A wrangle over Soviet charges that the United States is waging poison gas warfare in Viet Nam has muddled efforts by the U.N. to straighten out its peacekeeping functions.

Soviet Chief Delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko and U.S. Ambassador Francis T. Plimpton got embroiled in the dispute Friday at the opening session of a special 33-nation committee dealing with peacekeeping operations.

Fedorenko accused the United States of using "poison gas" in Viet Nam and declared such an act was "a crime against mankind."

Plimpton accused the Russians of injecting "a discordant, irrelevant and cold war propagandistic note" into a debate intended to deal with the U.N.'s financial problems.

Plimpton charged that the real aggressor in Viet Nam was the Communist northern regime which he said seeks by "violence and terror" to destroy the Saigon government.

He said the United States sought "no wider conflict — only the termination of aggression." It was not embarking upon gas warfare, he said, but only used nonlethal riot control gas.

General Assembly President Alex Quaison Sackey of Ghana who heads the committee, finally adjourned further meetings until late April. He said he and Secretary-General U Thant would seek some big power agreement on which the group could base its future work.

House Probers To Study Klan

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a nudge from President Johnson, the House Committee on Un-American Activities is expected to vote next week to launch a formal investigation of the Ku Klux Klan.

The committee already has a "preliminary inquiry" into the Klan under way when the President suggested Friday on national radio a television that there be congressional investigations of the Klan.

The President suggested congressional investigations and called for legislation to control the Klan in a statement announcing that the FBI had arrested four Klansmen in the slaying of Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo of Detroit in Alabama Thursday night.

Johnson declared his father, Samuel Early Johnson Jr., had fought the Klan in Texas and he had fought them and "I shall continue to fight them because I know their loyalty is not to the United States but to the hooded society of bigots."

In regard to the new legislation he is asking Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to develop, Johnson expressed hope "congressional committees may wish to investigate the activities of such organizations and the part they play in instigating violence."

Pressure for an investigation was growing. Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., declared that the Klan belongs, "like communism, on the list of subversive organizations compiled by the attorney general of the United States."

The chairman of the House committee, Rep. Edwin E. Willis, D-La., declined to say when his committee would begin a

Ohio's KKK Boss Calls LBJ 'Stupid'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Ohio has labeled as "stupid" President Johnson's remarks that the Klan is made up of "enemies of justice... who terrorize their neighbors."

Flyn Harvey of Columbus said Friday night "it is about time the President threatened the other side in the civil rights dispute and not Klansmen. He (the President) is just as much the Klan's President as he is Martin Luther King's."

Harvey said his organization has "no intention of disbanding" as Johnson suggested.

The President also asked Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to draft legislation to bring the Klan under "effective control of law." Johnson made his statements a few hours after the FBI had arrested four Alabama Klansmen in connection with Thursday night's fatal shooting of Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo of Detroit on the road between Selma and Montgomery.

Harvey said the Ohio Klan does not condone violence "but that woman from Detroit would still be alive today if she had stayed in Detroit."

Harvey claimed the Klan has 1,000 members in Ohio. He made his comments in a telephone interview with a Cleveland radio station (KYW).

The Klan was granted a charter by Ohio Secretary of State Ted W. Brown last October, but Brown revoked it after a short time. The Klan has appealed the revocation.

Steel Negotiators OK Procedure for Talks

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Basic steel negotiating moved into its first weekend sessions today after the 12 top bargainers agreed on scheduling and procedures for their crucial talks.

Subcommittees for the United Steelworkers Union and the basic steel industry held numerous meetings. The top-level team was reported standing by.

full investigation if the members vote to have one.

The committee staff has been undertaking since last month what Willis refers to as a "preliminary study" which the members will use as a basis for deciding whether a formal investigation of the Klan is merited.

In proposing the congressional probe, Johnson warned Klansmen to quit and "return to a decent society — before it is too late."

With FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover at his side, Johnson said: "Mrs. Liuzzo went to Alabama to serve the struggle for justice. She was murdered by the enemies of justice, who for decades have used the rope and the gun, the tar and the feathers to terrorize their neighbors."

"They struck at night, as they generally do, for their purposes cannot stand the light of day."

Spacemen Plan Rest in Sun

Astronauts Face New York Parade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Applauded, decorated and toasted as heroes, Gemini astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young left the fanfare behind today for a weekend in the Florida sun.

But there's more acclaim ahead for the two men who last Tuesday piloted the first manned maneuverable spacecraft on three orbits around the earth. They fly to New York Monday for a ticker-tape parade.

They may have had enough already. Even before their day in the Washington limelight began, a friend said Grissom and Young didn't relish all the publicity.

"They said they had more trouble after the flight, with all this rigmarole, than they did during the flight itself," Air Force Maj. Raymond Lee Koenig said.

Koenig, once a flying mate of Grissom, said he chatted with the astronauts at Andrews AFB, Md., soon after they arrived from Cape Kennedy, Fla., Friday.

"Young commented that this wasn't his type of activity, all this baloney," Koenig said.

"His little girl looked up and said 'Baione, daddy?'"

"So he explained 'we're airplane drivers'."

"And Grissom told her 'we're not built for this'."

President Johnson decorated the two space pilots at a White House ceremony. Both men received the space agency's Exceptional Service Medal. And Grissom was awarded a cluster for the Distinguished Service Medal he received after a sub-orbital mission almost four years ago.

Then, escorted by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, they drove to the Capitol. Thousands of people, many of them school children who got the day off, cheered them on their way.

In a dark paneled reception room near the Senate chamber, the astronauts and their families had a steak luncheon with leaders of Congress.

4 University Students Killed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Four Duke University students were killed Friday night when the small car in which they were riding collided with a tractor-trailer about 20 miles south-west of here on the West Virginia Turnpike.

The victims apparently were en route to Ohio for the weekend.

State police identified the dead as Carol J. Crammer, 20, of Zanesville, Ohio; Linda L. Israel, 20, of Marietta, Ohio; William Ruggles, 19, of Columbus, Ohio, and Kristin D. Johnston, 18, of Tallahassee, Fla.

Men Are Accused Of Slaying Woman

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Alabama may seek first degree murder indictments against four white men — called Ku Klux Klansmen by President Johnson — who are charged with conspiracy in the ambush slaying of a Detroit civil rights worker.

If the evidence warrants, "I'm going to insist that we get a first degree murder indictment, State Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers said Friday night.

Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, white and mother of five, was shot to death near Lowndesboro, Ala., while assisting in a civil rights drive.

Flowers said, "from what I've heard thus far, it looks like pre-meditated murder."

Conviction for first degree murder in Alabama carries either a death sentence or life imprisonment at the discretion of the jury.

The President announced the arrests in Washington, 16½ hours after Mrs. Liuzzo, who grew up in the South, slumped over in the driver's seat of her car, a bullet in the temple.

Selma Negro, Leroy Moton, 19, was beside her in the car when another auto pulled alongside and two shots were fired. The two were returning to Montgomery after shuttling a group of civil rights workers to Selma. She was en route back to pick up another group.

The four men arrested were Eugene Thomas, 42, and William Orville Eaton, 41, both of Bessemer; Gary Tommy Rowe Jr., 34, of Birmingham; and Collier Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, of Fairfield, Ala.

The four were taken into custody by FBI agents in the Birmingham area. A U.S. commissioner set bond at $50,000 each. Thomas, Eaton and Rowe were released several hours later when their attorney posted bond.

Wilkins remained in jail. He was convicted in federal court last November on a charge of possessing an unregistered shotgun, given a one-year suspended sentence and placed on probation for two years.

R. Macey Taylor, an assistant U.S. district attorney, said the four were charged with violating a 90-year-old federal statute for conspiring to deprive another person of his constitutional rights. Maximum penalty is 10 years in prison, a $5,000 fine or both.

Alert Medic Disarms Thug After Holdup

ROME, Ga. (AP) — A quick-thinking Chattanooga, Tenn., obstetrician, held hostage at gunpoint by a bank robber during a wild, 100-mile-per-hour auto ride through northwest Georgia, disarmed his captor as police closed in at the end of the chase Friday night.

Police cornered the robber's getaway car on a dead end street in Rome and arrested James P. Davis, about 37, of Chattanooga. The hostage, Dr. Robert Demos, 45, of Chattanooga, Tenn., escaped unharmed.

"Please don't do anything to make it sound as if I'm a hero," Demos told The Associated Press. "I just drove with a gun at my head and grabbed the gun when I had a chance."

Demos said he threw the gun out of the car after taking it away from Davis as police cornered the car. Demos then jumped from the car yelling, "Don't kill him. Don't kill him."

"God must have been on my side because we went down a dead end street and about 20 cars came in behind us," the doctor said.

Demos said he was not frightened because Davis told him "Now, Doc, I'm not going to kill you."

U.S. Vessel Is Blown Up

Reds Given Blame For Viet Blast

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A massive explosion believed set off by Viet Cong frogmen Friday blew gaping holes in the hull of an American LST docked at a commercial pier at Da Nang.

The blast by an estimated 500 pounds of high explosives injured one Japanese crewman slightly, caused extensive interior damage, and ripped a half dozen holes two to six feet in diameter in the hull.

An official in Saigon said the LST — landing ship tank — did not sink.

The blast was touched off despite an overnight city curfew and rigid security precautions throughout the area — site of the strategic Da Nang air base, now guarded by 4,000 U.S. Marines and batteries of Hawk anti-aircraft missiles.

Two squadrons of Marine warplanes are expected to be brought to Viet Nam to support the Leatherneck ground forces already here.

An informed source said the aircraft would be stationed at Da Nang, complementing the present Marine Hawk squadron and two squadrons of Marine helicopters.

The Marine 9th Expeditionary Brigade — two battalions of combat troops — landed in Da Nang early this month with the mission of guarding the jet field, closest to the 17th Parallel.

The LST explosion recalled the sabotage of the aircraft ferry Card, a converted World War II baby carrier, which was sunk in Saigon Harbor last May. The ship was later refloated and returned to duty after repairs.

The LST, No. 550, is an unarmed vessel assigned to Military Sea Transport Service and is Japanese-manned. It had arrived in Da Nang Friday from Saigon, with a stop at the central coastal port of Nha Trang.

A spokesman said the ship's cargo had been unloaded. It consisted mostly of supplies for the Da Nang military post exchange store, plus some jeeps, trucks, railway cars and other military supplies.

Woman, 39, Killed By Her Own Revolver

CLEVELAND (AP) — A 39-year-old woman was shot and killed Friday night when a .22-caliber revolver she pulled from her dress as she ran from her East Side home discharged accidentally, the bullet hitting her in the head.

Police said the victim Mrs. Frances Freeman, was running from the house following an argument with her husband, Henry, 35. Freeman was held without charge for questioning.

4-H Band in Action

County 4-H Band Prepping For Second Year of Activity

With one successful year behind them, Pickaway County 4-H band members will reorganize Wednesday evening for the 1965 year.

Because membership is drawn from all four of the county's high schools, as well as several of the elementary schools, actual rehearsal will not begin until June. They will be scheduled on a weekly basis during June and July. Monthly meetings during April and May will be utilized for special project work.

Membership is open to any boy or girl who has and plays a band instrument well enough to play the 4-H band music, and who meet the 4-H age requirements.

If band membership exceeds 60 a majorette corps will be selected. They will be trained for occasions when the band appears as a marching unit.

The bandsmen are 4-H members whose project is 4-H band. They have the same privileges and responsibilities as other 4-H members.

They must attend eight meetings, exhibit their project by appearing in concerts with the band, are graded and receive a premium award. Members also have project books.

Members participate in all county 4-H activities, including the County Fair. Last year's band appeared at several festivals and carnivals, including the Pumpkin Show and the State Fair. The 1965 band also has been invited to appear at the State Fair.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting the advisers who are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dunkel, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schein, Mrs. Sterling Poling and Drexel Poling or may attend the organization meeting which is scheduled 7:30 p.m. Mar. 31 at the Fairgrounds 4-H and Grange Building.

College students or others who cannot attend the organization meeting may notify one of the advisers if they desire membership prior to the organization meeting.

Each Year Brings New Trends for Prices on Wool

By RALPH H. GRIMSHAW
Extension Specialist, OSU

During the years I have learned that each year brings new trends and new factors affecting the wool market and prices.

It now appears that 1965 will be very different than the past three or four years. Many producers are asking "Why the lower price level for wool this year?" I will offer just a few factors that are affecting wool prices.

First — the United States is on an import basis as far as wool is concerned and the trend of foreign prices has been lower for the past six months. Foreign prices have also been affected by the financial problem of England and most European countries, also of several South American wool producing countries. Prices of foreign wools delivered to the United States duty paid are 25 to 35 cents per pound lower 'clean basis' than a year ago or roughly 10 to 15 cents grease basis. Therefore, prices for domestic wools are lower to meet the competition of these cheaper foreign wools.

Second — the competition of imported foreign made wool fabrics, yarns and clothing, has made it more difficult for U. S. mills to compete because of the much lower wage scale paid in the textile industry in foreign countries than in the United States.

Third — the competition of synthetic fibers has a great effect on wool prices. With lower wool prices this year, it first appeared that wool would not be affected as much by synthetics. However, in mid-January, DuPont announced a sharp price reduction for Dacron, and other synthetics are lower in price and are again very competitive with wool.

Fourth — imported foreign wools are skirted and carefully classed so that mills can scour, comb, and card these wools without expensive sorting. Domestic wools to compete must be better prepared. Too large a percentage of our domestic wools are not well prepared and mills must assume a large expense for sorting, which makes foreign wool more competitive.

MOST of those closely connected with wool marketing feel that the wool producers will determine the price level for the 1965 clip. If producers attempt to force the bulk of the 1965 clip on the market and accept present lower prices, this will determine the price level. On the other hand, if producers market the 1965 clip in an orderly manner the general price levels will stabilize and be much better than the low prices of the shearing season.

Tillage Research Results Hinge on Various Factors

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Much has been written during the past 20 years comparing conventional means of tillage for row crops with minimum and mulch tillage systems.

These systems appear to perform differently in different states or even in different trials within a given state. What is the reason for this apparent discrepancy? No two research programs are usually conducted with similar weather conditions (particularly rainfall), soil types, species of previous crop or management practices.

These factors can definitely affect the results obtained with broad classes of tillage systems as is illustrated by recent results obtained by Dr. O. M. Van Doren at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster.

Corn yields produced with conventional tillage (plowed, disked twice, planted and cultivated three times), minimum tillage (plowed, planted and cultivated three times), and mulch tillage (disked twice, planted and cultivated three times) were compared in 1962 and 1963. An additional no-tillage treatment (not plowed, not disked, planted, and not cultivated) was included as an example of the most recent type of tillage system.

EACH OF the four tillage systems was compared on the same soil type, partly in fescue sod the previous year and partly in corn the previous year. In additional crop residues were removed (as in cutting sod for hay or corn for silage) on one part of the land and left intact on the other.

The growing season was dry both years. Rainfall was 6.7 inches less in 1962 and 4.5 inches less than the 15.4 annually normally obtained from May through August.

Soil was Wooster silt loam, a structurally unstable soil that tends to form a crust during rainstorms. The corn was hand planted to insure a uniform plant spacing and thinned to a common stand of 18,000 plant per acre.

Each corn row was sidedressed at planting time with 150 pounds per acre of nitrogen, 44 pound per acre of phosphorus and 83 pounds per acre of potassium. All weeds were controlled on all plots with application of three pounds per acre each of active dalapon and amitrole three weeks prior to planting and 2 pounds per acre of active atrazine at planting time. This herbicide program was not economical, but it completely eliminated all undesirable vegetation.

Result: The conventional tillage system produced equal yields regardless of previous crop or residue management. Minimum tillage following corn produced yields equal to all of the conventional tillage treatments.

The disking operations of the conventional tillage system were not necessary for optimum corn yields. However, minimum tillage following sod produced a 10 bushel yield increase over the conventional tillage treatments. In this case, disking operations of conventional tillage were detrimental.

ALTHOUGH actual soil moisture measurements were not taken, it is thought that disking the rough surface of the plowed sod smoothed out the soil surface, thereby reducing infiltration of water during rainfall. Since the 1962 and 1963 seasons were dry, conventional tillage yields were probably limited by the reduced amount of available water.

The non-plowed treatment, particularly no-tillage, were very sensitive to both previous crop and residue management. Mulch tillage following silage corn produced the same corn yield as conventional tillage. Leaving the corn stalks on the soil surface as a mulch increased the yield nine bushels per acre, which is equivalent to the best minimum tillage treatment.

Mulch tillage following sod produced a yield of 114 bushels per acre. No tillage yields ranged from a low of 71 to a high of 122 bushels per acre, with only the treatment following silage corn producing less corn than conventional tillage.

These large yield differences among the non-plowed treatment appear to be related to the amount of dead vegetation on the soil surface. The greater percentage of the soil surface covered with residue, the higher the yield. No-tillage corn produced yields similar to conventional tillage with about 50 percent residue cover measured at harvest. With greater mulch cover, no tillage yield were higher.

Soil moisture again may explain these yield differences. Other research workers have found that mulches can increase infiltration during rainfall and reduce evaporation from the soil surface. Since the season was dry in 1962 and 1963 at Wooster, the corn needed all the water it could get.

Assuming that more water got into the soil when it did rain and that less water was lost by evaporation, the treatments having an adequate mulch had more water for plants to use than did treatments with bare surfaces. This could be visually seen during many June and July afternoons when corn severely wilted on the bare surface, non-plowed plots while corn on plots with 80-100 percent residue cover showed no wilting symptoms.

RECOGNITION of the many factors affecting relative production capabilities for the various tillage systems is readily apparent. Had these four systems been tested only on sod with residues left on the soil surface, the no-tillage system would have seemed the best, followed closely by mulch tillage. If, on the other hand, had these systems been tested only following silage corn, the no-tillage system would have seemed by far the worst.

As significant as these results may appear, recommendations for farmer adoption must await further study. These yield data were obtained from very small plots using hand lab and expensive herbicides. The most promising treatments need to be performed on larger plots with conventional equipment.

Economics of the entire operation must be evaluated. Only then can new practices be recommended which differ significantly from those presently employed.

Dairymen, Supervisor Group Presented District Awards

Four outstanding dairy farmers and eight dairy testing supervisors received awards in Columbus today at Ohio's annual Dairy Honor Luncheon.

One farmer and two supervisors from each of four districts — Northwest, Northeast, Southwest, and Southeast — won plaques from the National Dairy Products Corporation. The farmers were honored for their records in milk production, their dairy farming practices, and their participation in community affairs.

The supervisors won recognition for their overall efficiency in collecting and compiling testing data.

Nearly 40 other farmers who had been named county winners in an Efficient Dairy Production project sponsored by the Ohio Dairyman's Association received certificates.

THE plaque-winning farmers were Willis Bible, Route 1, Montpelier; Eugene and Dean Welch, Route 1, Polk; Billy E. Evans, Route 2, Jamestown; and Robert R. Clarke, Route 2, Uhrichsville.

Supervisors receiving plaques were Oris Williams of Logan County and Herman Schultz of Fulton County, Northwest district; Vernon Marcellus of Medina County and Russell Searles of Lorain County, Northeast district; Carroll and Judy Buehner of Preble County and Don Millhouse of Miami County, Southwest district; and Robert A. Fox of Fairfield County and Ronnie Welsh of Munsinkingum County, Southeast district.

The Bible herd has been on a testing program for 12 years and now includes 63 Holstein cows of milking age. The herd last year produced 892,500 pounds of milk with a production average of 15,769 pounds per cow. Bible operates 197 acres.

Eugene and Dean Welch have a milking herd of 82 Holsteins with a production average of 13,579 pounds of milk and a total milk yield last year of 896,214 pounds. They operate 390 acres. Their herd has been on test for 17 years.

Evans has a milking herd of 36 Holsteins. The herd has been on a testing program for the last four years and has a production average of 18,402 pounds. Last year the herd produced 658,584 pounds of milk. The farm acreage totals 147.

Clarke's milking herd numbers 62 Holsteins which have averaged 16,681 pounds of milk. Last year the herd produced a total of $1,023,880 pounds of milk. It has been on test for four years. Clarke farms 240 acres.

The luncheon was held in the Arts and Crafts building at the Ohio Expositions Center.

Homemaker News

Home Economics Agent

Refinishing furniture at home is a craft enjoyed by many people. It may be done to restore an old piece of furniture, or it may be to replace a damaged finish on a relatively new piece of furniture.

Considering all resources, you may find it more economical to refinish the furniture yourself than have it done by a professional. The therapeutic value, the pride in accomplishment, the development of a skill and the possibility of stimulating family interest in a worthwhile activity should not be overlooked.

Before starting to refinish a piece of furniture, consider it carefully in terms of reasons for doing it. It may have a high sentimental value with or without a useful purpose.

Unless the design and construction are good, the furniture may not be worth refinishing. Poor construction will also limit the value of the piece.

The wood used in the piece of furniture can help to determine its value as well as the method used to refinish it. Solid woods are probably the easiest and most satisfactory to refinish. Veneers of furniture wood require special care, particularly in removing an old finish and in sanding the surface.

Clearing the finish of a old piece of furniture may be necessary to reveal its condition before you start to work.

Commercial paint and varnish removers are available in many consistencies. These should be used in a well ventilated room and away from an open flame. All the finish must be removed.

The wood is next sanded or smoothed. This smoothes and helps bring out the sheen. Always work with the grain of the wood.

Polishing is the final process and follows the application of all kinds of finishes. Waterproof papers and powders are used with oil as a lubricant for polishing. This produces a soft, satin sheen.

Several surface finishes are available. Shellac is not water proof. Moisture and liquids turn it white. It may be used to finish picture frames, chair frames or display racks.

Varnish protects wood, is easily cleaned but will show scratches and is one of the most difficult finishes for the amateur to apply.

Lacquer dries so quickly that skill is necessary to brush it on.

Plastic coatings are on the market and provide a hard, clear, water resistant surface finish.

Wax — paste wax can be used as a final finish over all other finishes. Steps in refinishing a piece of furniture are: Evaluate piece of furniture to be refinished; Consider materials, space, time and money to be used; Examine old finish — clean if necessary to determine the condition; Remove the old finish; Complete any repairs needed; Sand only to smooth surface; Stain if desired — seal; Fill if needed — seal; Apply coats of selected finish; Polish and wax if desired.

Contact the Extension office and ask for Bulletin No. 456 on finishing furniture.

Congress Takes a Look

Congress is considering slashing an administration request for funds by more than 60 per cent. The money bill is President Johnson's request for $55 million to operate the United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency for four more years.

The House cut the amount to $40 million and the extension to three years. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has recommended only $20 million and an extension of two years. A few senators have proposed scuttling the agency entirely.

The strong opposition to the agency is the result of information revealed in Senate debate. Since the agency was established in 1961, the better part of $26 million has been spent on "studies" of dubious value.

For instance, a 47-page report on Russia's aggressive tendencies cost $147,000 or $3,000 a page or more than $3 a word. Its findings? Massive building of shelters in the United States might—and then again, might not—allay Russian anxieties about the dangers of a nuclear strike from the United States. It cannot be presumed that all the studies were of questionable value, but thousands of dollars have been spent for obviously worthless advice. No wonder congressmen are piqued.

In these perilous times governments, even when it seems futile, must probe constantly for ways to reduce the arms race and its concomitant hazards. What Congress should do about the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency—and about other ventures which become misguided—is to demand proper administration of funds.

Congress can dictate the use of funds. It can check on the use of funds—apparently Congress did not check on agency practices—and Congress can apply its purse string power to ensure that agency administrators are competent.

Apparently that is what Congress is about to do. The money for the "studies" has been spent. If Congress was hoodwinked, it has a duty to the taxpayers to make sure it doesn't happen again.

"Give up your golf?" gasped his now sympathetic adversary. "Good heavens, no," groaned the other. "I mean the ministry."

Sufferers of allergy will be happy to learn about a new and impressive advance in the treatment of hay fever, allergies, eczema and asthma.

A chemical substance called heparin, which has been used as an anticoagulant, is now believed to be effective in the treatment and prevention of certain allergic conditions.

In a recent study conducted by Dr. David A. Dolowitz and Dr. Thomas Dougherty at the University of Utah, it was noted that heparin seems to possess a special quality that prevents the release of allergy-producing histamine in body cells.

The dramatic improvement in some cases of acute asthma reinforces the hope that heparin might be of vital importance in the treatment of this condition. Stubborn cases of "weeping eczema" responded quickly to heparin treatments.

Patients with pollenosis (sensitivity to cottonwood, goldenrod and ragweed pollens) were also markedly benefited from the use of this drug.

Though the drug is still being tested, the early results offer great promise of welcome relief to allergy sufferers.

A new and effective method of treatment to save lives and prevent severe disfigurement from extensive burns is now being added to the many already in use.

It's Fun To Be Stingy

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk comments by a Pavement Plator:

There's fun in being stingy. Try it and see.

In his youth, man is a waster and a destroyer. He likes to tear down things, throw things away. He believes he is surrounded by a limitless plenty.

But after the free-wheeling years pass, a subtle change comes over most people. The squirrel side of their nature comes to the fore, and the ant in their makeup replaces the grasshopper.

One begins to measure his success by the number of things he can accumulate — children and chattels, cars and mortgages, a home with crabgrass that he can proudly call his own.

At 50, a man is known by his possessions. But whether he be poor, rich, or merely getting along, he probably is no longer the carefree spendthrift he once was.

Now, seeing the years closing in on him, he feels a blind, increasing urge to hoard something against the long dark.

This man's "stingy stage." I am in it now — and am having the time of my life.

To be stingy you don't have to be a mean-tempered miser, skinflint or tightwad. All you have to be is sensibly thrifty.

That's why the stingy man stays out of night clubs. They aren't worth the money.

That's why the stingy man avoids bores. They aren't worth his time.

Saving is the chief characteristic of the stingy stage. You have to save something. Saving money, of course, would be nice, at least from the viewpoint of your heirs, but the government has made that unpatriotic if not impossible.

Many people first discover they have entered the stingy stage by noting they have started to save string.

I haven't gotten around to string yet. But you should see my fine collection of brown paper grocery bags — enough to stock a small supermarket.

But my special prize is my clothes closet. There rest in honored glory such treasures as a jacket I bought when Adolf Hitler was still in power and a pair of slacks I got in Bombay in 1945. If wide lapels and pleats come back in style by next month, I'll be the hit of the Easter parade.

To the properly stingy man nothing is ever really out of date. He lives by the motto, "To each his own." And he keeps his.

The Business World

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — American businessmen often are finding it hard to fit their foreign investment programs into President Johnson's voluntary program for holding down the outflow of U.S. dollars.

And some of them are critical of its long-term aims and think it may backfire.

But most big corporations are going along with the voluntary cutback, at least for the time being, and adjusting as best they can.

Many, however, question the assumption that foreign investments are a bad thing, whether for the short term or the long. And some are disputing the emphasis being placed upon such investments as contributing to the U.S. deficit in international payments. They contend that such investments pay their own way and actually bring back more dollars than go overseas.

"It is extremely difficult to measure the precise effect of foreign investments on the U.S. balance of payments position," the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Va., says in its March Review.

Looking at just one phase of the problem, private capital outflow compared with income from foreign investments, the bank says that income consistently exceeded capital outflow in the early 1950s. But since 1956 capital outflows have topped income in all but two years. It is this turn-around in the years that the U.S. payments deficit was growing that sparked the President's voluntary plan for keeping dollars home.

The bank points out that some overseas investment immediately increases U.S. exports, a key goal of the President's program. And the bank adds that sometimes the dollars foreigners get by sale of securities to Americans or by bank loans are used to buy U.S. goods, so that the balance of payments is helped both by increased exports and by the payment of interest or dividends. The bank says the same holds for a large part of short-term capital flows which are for the purpose of financing exports.

Bartz Gets New Du Pont Assignment

JOSEPH R. BARTZ

Joseph R. Bartz, veteran executive at Du Pont's Circleville film plant, has been transferred to the manufacturing division of the company's Film Department at Wilmington, Dela.

Bartz, assigned to the Circleville plant in 1953, held the post of manufacturing superintendent. He recently had been placed on special assignment for a study pertaining to the capacity and modernization of "Mylar" facilities here.

The transfer to Wilmington is effective immediately. He and his wife, Vera, live at 995 Lynwood Court. They have three children, Terry, Lynn, Richard and Patricia Jo.

Bartz is a graduate of Carnegie Tech where he was awarded a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering. He is a veteran of the U. S. Air Force.

THE FORMER manufacturing superintendent started his Du Pont tenure as an engineer at the company's film plant in Clinton, Ia. He later was named a shift supervisor in manufacturing there, was transferred to the Yerkes plant in Buffalo, N. Y., as a research shift supervisor, then came to Circleville in 1953 as a manufacturing shift supervisor.

Prior to his manufacturing superintendent position here, he served as a day manufacturing supervisor, assistant manufacturing area supervisor and then as area supervisor in manufacturing.

Bartz is a member of St. Joseph's Church here. He served on the Pickaway County Community Fund Board of Directors, including one year as campaign chairman. He was active in Boy Scout functions involving Troop and Cub Pack 205.

Plans Made For Chamber Observance

"Chamber of Commerce Week" will be observed in Circleville April 4-10.

Members of the Circleville Area Chamber met yesterday at the Pickaway Arms to set plans for the annual event. The observance will be conducted on a nationwide level.

Participation here will include a proclamation by the mayor, a display of appropriate streamers in downtown store windows, an address by Chamber president Jack Clifton at the April 8 Rotary meeting and other promotional activities.

The observance will be guided by J. Boyd Stout and his public relations committee. All area merchants are urged to take part.

PRESENT for yesterday's planning session were Stout, Earl Palm, William Stout, Paul Smallwood, Mrs. E. R. Bennett, president Clifton and guest Roland McGinnis.

Clifton announced that Harold Anderson has been named chairman for the Chamber's annual "Paint-up, Clean-up Week" scheduled here May 2-9.

treated at a hospital in Waterbury, Conn., after a street fight broke out in a Negro neighborhood when officers tried to make an arrest. Police said they were called "segregationists" and other names by a crowd of from 150 to 200. Bottles and bricks were thrown at the officers.

2. Counties seeking exemptions from the proposed voting rights act of 1965 were promised full Justice Department cooperation. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach told delegates of the National Association of Counties, meeting in Washington, "we want to make the burden on the counties as small as we can."

3. A boycott at Negro Jackson High School in Jonesboro, La., ended its third week with no solution in sight. The pupils are protesting what they called substandard facilities and courses.

4. Nineteen Syracuse University students asked Katzenbach for federal protection while in Jonesboro, La., helping reconstruct two Negro churches destroyed by fire Jan. 19. They plan to spend their spring vacation in the Deep South community. And Gov. John J. McKeithen of Louisiana said he will go to Jonesboro to try personal diplomacy with Negro students boycotting a school.

5. The House Committee on Un-American Activities probably will meet next week to decide whether it should launch a formal investigation of the Ku Klux Klan.

The four men the FBI said belonged to the Klan had little to say when brought before U. S. Commissioner Louise O. Charlton except "Yes m'am," and "yes, your honor."

The commissioner is a spry 76 and has had her office in Birmingham for 41 years. She wore a pink suit with a turquoise blouse for the bond hearing. A pink rose was stuck in her near-white hair.

Once when opposing attorneys disagreed over an arraignment date she told them, "Now, let's don't put this off forever and ever please."

She handed them a calendar and after brief discussion set April 15 as the date.

Wilkins, who was dressed in a dark brown shirt and black trousers, and Rowe, who was neatly garbed in a dark grey suit and white shirt, objected to photographers taking their pictures.

"Get those damn lights out of my face," Wilkins told one cameraman.

Rowe, who has red hair, lunged three times at photographers, once forcing an FBI agent to push him into a hastily opened door for a moment.

Another time when Rowe was ducking a cameraman he appeared to make a threatening gesture and said, "I'm fixing to bust one of them in the mouth." An FBI agent said, "Take it easy."

Some hours after completion of the bond hearings in Birmingham, a blue and white Teamsters Union plane arrived in Detroit with the body of Mrs. Liuzzo, wife of a union official.

The plane was sent to Montgomery on orders of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa.

President Johnson announced the arrests of the four men on nationwide television and radio with FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover at his side.

"I cannot express myself too strongly in praising Hoover and his men for their swift action after the slaying of Mrs. Liuzzo," Johnson said.

The White House said about one-half the National Guard units are expected to be returned to state control by midnight tonight. Regular Army units will be released "as soon as practicable," presidential press secretary George Reedy said.

In addition to announcing the arrests, Johnson described the Klan as "a hooded society of bigots" disloyal to the United States.

"Mrs. Liuzzo went to Alabama to serve the struggle for justice," he said. "She was murdered by the enemies of justice, who for decades have used the rope and the gun, the tar and the feathers to terrorize their neighbors."

Robert M. Shelton Jr., of Tuscaloosa, Ala., an imperial wizard of the Klan, called the President a "damned liar" for his remarks about the hooded organization.

"This organization has never used tar and feathers and a rope," said Shelton, Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama described the slaying of the civil rights worker as "a tragic, tragic thing."

"There's no way to say how sorry I am about that fine woman being shot down like that," he said. "Life simply should not be that cheap."

'Voice of Consumer' Is Irritating Some Segments of U.S. Business

WASHINGTON (AP) — While taking the pulse of the American consumer, Esther Peterson has raised the temperature of some top businessmen.

"The most pernicious threat to advertising today," the trade magazine Printers' Ink called her.

No federal programs, including Mrs. Peterson's, are needed to protect consumer interests, said the president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

But, after a year as the Voice of the Consumer in the White House, friendly, fast-talking Mrs. Peterson hasn't lost any of her energy or enthusiasm. Despite the criticism, she has plenty of allies in high official and business posts as well as among the consumers. Her more formal title is presidential assistant for consumer affairs.

"I love being given an assignment in which I believe. I have to feel deeply about things I do," says Mrs. Peterson, 59, mother of four, who has been a labor lobbyist and teacher.

Cub Pack Names New Adult Leaders

Cub Pack 170 has been re-chartered for the coming year and new adult leaders have been named.

Adults responsible for leadership of the pack are:

Neil Merriman, cubmaster; John Beck, assistant cubmaster; John Rooker, committee chairman; Larry MacFadden, Robert MacFadden and Dixie Watters, committeemen. Mrs. Neil Merriman, Mrs. John Rooker, Mrs. John Eitel Jr. and Mrs. Paul Woltz, den mothers.

The meeting of Cub Pack 170 was opened with the Pledge to the Flag, led by James Salvors. The theme, "South of the Border" was displayed in skits acted out by each den. Den one demonstrated the "Coyote and Sheep" game; dens two and three did a Mexican hat dance and den four presented a bull fight. Tom Eitel recited the Cub Scout Promise in Spanish translated by Miss Mary Walters.

Bobcat pins were presented to Terry Newlon, Robert Ash and Terry Crumley. Wolf patches were presented to Tom Spring, John Rooker, Steve Watters, Mark MacFadden, Billy Eitel, Gary Young, Shawn MacFadden, Mike Pettibone, Danny Sproule, Joe Messenger, Robert Rose and John Beck.

Bear patches were presented to Carl Garrett, Larry McFarland, Billy Merriman, Ricky Woltz, Steve Gaines, Gary Kenworthy and Herschel Rose. Tim Eitel received a Lion patch.

One year pins went to Carl Garrett, Larry MacFarland, Billy Merriman, Ricky Woltz, John McLaughlin, Steve Gaines, Gary Kenworthy, James Salvors, Tom Eitel, David Eitel, Rick Seymour, Mike Pettibone, Brian Eitel and Herschel Rose.

Aside from making innumerable speeches across the country, Mrs. Peterson has been quietly meeting with top officials of advertising and industry, preferably over the dinner table, using the soft-sell to convince them it's to their own advantage to help the consumer shop wisely.

Aiming her criticism at advertising claims and taste, she told the advertisers that American consumers "are about ready to start a 'revolt against humbug' — against the massive assaults that are made on the human intelligence by some of today's most conspicuous advertising."

"When advertising arouses the resentment and contempt of people — as some advertising does — eventually indifference sets in," she said.

Mrs. Peterson is the wife of Oliver Peterson, a retired Foreign Service officer who now teaches at American University. They live in an integrated neighborhood in Washington and have four children. The Oldest, Eric, 24, a Harvard graduate now studying architecture, served two years in the Peace Corps in the Philippines.

Mrs. Peterson gives her Mormon upbringing in Provo, Utah, where her father, Lars Eggertson, was superintendent of county schools, as an explanation for her lifelong habit of taking on added responsibilities. She once left a good-paying job as head of a college department to take a $5-a-week job with the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union.

The finance committee gave a report. It was announced a rummage sale will be held at the school April 24.

Committees for the sale are: foods, Mrs. Esther Collins, Mrs. Gladys Hedges; pickup, Don Minor, Don Maxson, John Kerns, Don DeLong; advertising, Steve Jones, Carl Fry, Mary Ann Justice.

The sixth grade won the room count.

Following the business meeting, music instructor Rhoderick Shaw presented the annual spring concert. The chorus and orchestra played several numbers. Shelly Thomas sang a solo.

Lloyd Speakman, George Maxson and Fred DeLong were named to the nominating committee.

WAYNE
The officers of Wayne Parent Teacher Assn. honored mothers of prospective first graders and the teachers with a tea Thursday afternoon at the school.

Open house was observed in all grades with many parents spending the day at school visiting their children's classes and enjoying the dinner hour with them.

This is the first time the PTA has sponsored the tea and it met with wide approval. Because of the interest, plans were discussed to make it an annual event.

The committee arranging the tea were Mrs. Edward Gahm, Mrs. Ronald Dowden, Mrs. Kenneth Garrison, Mrs. George Kline, Mrs. William Easter, Mrs. Lawrence Carter and Mrs. William Richards.

Many Jehovah's Witnesses Here for Circuit Session

Large numbers of Jehovah's Witnesses arrived yesterday for their circuit convention at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds. The session officially opened last night.

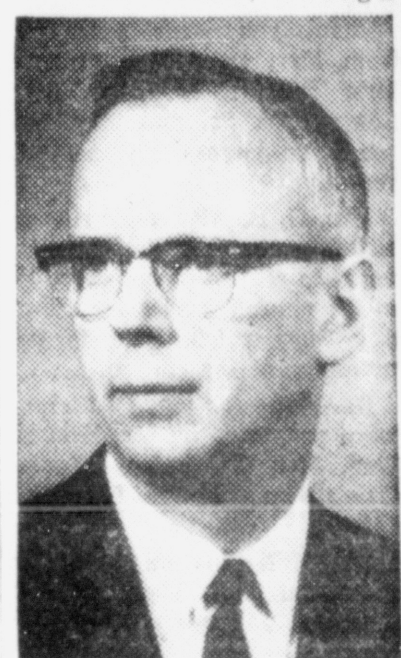

Officials of the group arrived Friday morning from Central Ohio. A large number arrived in time for the opening session at 6:45 p. m.

Volunteer workmen spent the better part of this week erecting a stage, stringing several thousand feet of wire for the sound system, and a crew cleaned the buildings.

District supervisor Walter R. Wissman, New York, officially set the convention theme, "Willingly Fulfill your Ministry" when he made his initial appearance before the assembly.

He will also direct the Theocratic Ministry School. This school is held weekly at all congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses world-wide. Men, women and children are enrolled. It provides the individual minister with his personal training as a public bearer of good news.

The school program includes instruction lectures, assignments of public Bible reading and sermons for the house-to-house ministry. Each student is given instructive counsel by the school director.

Anthony Bellegante, circuit supervisor, was to preside during the Service Meeting. Here Jehovah's Witnesses learn ways and means by which each minister can most efficiently shoulder his obligation of preaching regularly to every household in his assigned territory and study the Bible with every interested person. This meeting is held weekly in conjunction with the Theocratic Ministry School.

Witness ministers will call from house to house inviting Pickaway County residents to the convention. All sessions are open to the public free of charge. No collections will be taken.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been retired for a long time, and his idleness is getting on my nerves. I have as much to do as I always did, plus entertaining him. He is used to leading a very active life, and he can't get used to doing nothing. He will go anywhere he is invited. He doesn't care whether he knows the people or not, or how much it costs. And he drags me with him. Once he got an invitation to attend a testimonial dinner for Ben-Gurion. I hate to tell you how much it cost a plate. But he went anyway. And he didn't even know Ben-Gurion! Can you suggest ways to keep him busy so he won't be so restless?

Instant Decorating With New Wallpaper

By ELEANOR ROSS

In this, the era of instant coffee, TV dinners and other convenience foods, homemakers now have a new and pleasing adventure, "instant decorating."

Yes, as fast as one can wield a pair of scissors and saturate a sponge, it is now possible to create room settings of quality and charm.

One wallpaper firm has introduced a new line, "Fu. With Borders," a collection of 51 different wallpaper borders, plasticized for greater washability and pre-pasted for ease of hanging. Decorating problems can be solved, a snap at a time, with such borders as French Chef, Zoo Parade, Canopy, Floral and Fruit Swags, Formal Scroll and Americana — to name but a few.

The borders range from 8 to 81 inches and each pattern is designed so that it can be trimmed to fit a specific area.

There are literally hundreds of applications for these gay, new room accents which come in a new range of decorative colors such as empire green, burgundy, wedgewood blue plus a variety of delightful color combinations.

Just looking at the line is enough to inspire fresh ideas for adding to a room's look, or changing it so deftly.

We've been having fun using them as cutouts on "rec" room furniture, on cabinets, lamps and other room accessories that could do with a lift.

The borders are ideal for outlining a door, for lending a different look to painted walls and for individualizing flyers and stairwells.

Snip off enough to add a new dimension to screens, cornices or dormers.

The jobs aren't difficult to handle. After border lengths are measured and the ends trimmed neatly with scissors, they may be easily applied after submerging in clean water for a few moments. Drain off excess water, position the pattern where it is to be applied, then brush flat with a smoothing brush or wet sponge.

An average kitchen area can be done in short order.

Complex Idle Pay Setup Detailed To Legislative Committeemen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

Members of the House Industry and Labor Committee are receiving "night school" instruction about Ohio's complex unemployment compensation laws.

Committee Chairman Jacob A. Shawan, R-Franklin, said he wanted members brought up to date on operation of the much-amended statutes for hearings.

He called in Administrator Willard P. Dudley of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation as the lead-off man at weekly committee sessions in the first Ohio adaptation of a congressional practice in recent years.

Beman S. Pound, unemployment compensation director, and William Papier, director of research and statistics, will instruct the committee next week and Willard D. Campbell, board of review chairman, on April 6. Appearances by Don A. Heineman, employment service director, and Charles Curtin, manpower development training director, are slated for April 13.

Shawan pointed out that 14 of the 19 members were serving on the committee for the first time and were anxious to do a competent job.

The chairman expressed belief that his "faculty" would make it possible for committee members to legislate more effectively.

As an indication of the complexity of unemployment statutes, Dudley told the committee that "after some 30 years of experience, a complete solution to this problem has not been found although admittedly much progress has been made."

Dudley traced operation of jobless benefit laws from the first enactment in 1936 through a complete overhaul by the 1963 legislature to prevent the system from going bankrupt.

"The legislative problem," Shawan said, "is one of keeping revenues from the tax on employers in balance with benefits paid to jobless workers."

"Right now it appears that the program is in good balance and is accomplishing what the legislature attempted to accomplish during the last session. We want to keep it that way."

The previous legislature acted after the employer-created fund, from which unemployment benefits are drawn, had sunk to $67 million after $260 million in payments to jobless workers in 1962. The fund level exceeded $900 million in earlier years.

Shawan said the fund now was above the $232-million mark and headed for a target of $390 million. That goal is one and one-half times the benefit amount paid out during the 1962 recession, he explained.

The committee is composed of 11 Republicans and 8 Democrats.

Veteran members in addition to Shawan are Reps. H. Dennis Danley, R-Medina; Robert E. Levitt, R-Stark; Frank L. Gorman, D-Cuyahoga, and Julius A. Krupansky, D-Cuyahoga.

Others include Reps. John F. Corrigan, D-Cuyahoga; William J. Donovan, D-Lucas; Sam N. Hall, D-Montgomery; Dale L. Locker, D-Shelby; Carl B. Stokes, D-Cuyahoga; Ralph F. Turner Jr., D-Summit; Fred K. COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

Members of the House Industry and Labor Committee are receiving "night school" instruction about Ohio's complex unemployment compensation laws.

Committee Chairman Jacob A. Shawan, R-Franklin, said he wanted members brought up to date on operation of the much-amended statutes for hearings.

He called in Administrator Willard P. Dudley of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation as the lead-off man at weekly committee sessions in the first Ohio adaptation of a congressional practice in recent years.

Beman S. Pound, unemployment compensation director, and William Papier, director of research and statistics, will instruct the committee next week and Willard D. Campbell, board CHALLENGE HOPEFUL — One of Circleville's most honored reinsman Forrest Short (left) tells Scioto Downs president Charles D. Hill that he and brother Harry Short will be out to win the 4-year-old pacing division of the Challenge Stakes with their fleet pacer Royal J. Win. The handsome bay son of Royal Blackstone won the Scarlet and Gray Cup at Scioto last summer where he earned his record of 2:04 3/5.

Leading Sire Has Eight Sons Staked at Scioto Downs

Adios, who last month became the foremost sire in racing by forging ahead of the thoroughbred sire Bull Lea, has built his reputation with a solid foundation of tradition.

Adios, the standardbred sire who now has sired winners of more than $14 million, compared to Bull Lea's list of winners who earned $13 million, will have more than his share of tradition going for him this summer with eight of his sons eligible to three different stakes at Scioto Downs.

Adios numbers among his most famous progeny, the world Champion Adios Butler with a record of 1:34 3/5, and Henry T. Adios who holds the track pacing record at Scioto Downs of 1:58.

There are six sons of Adios eligible to the 3 year - old pacing division of the Scioto Downs Challenge Stakes including the fantastic undefeated Bret Hanover, 2, 1:37 2/5, and Gee Lee Hanover, 2, 2:01 3/5. Shamsky Sparkles In Redleg Victory

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Art Shamsky is a definite candidate for the vacancy in the Cincinnati Reds' outfield.

The slim southpaw hit a two-run homer Friday to clinch the Reds' 6-3 exhibition baseball victory over the Houston Astros. It was his second home run in two days and boosted his batting average to .420.

Manager Dick Sisler said later, "Art is very much in the outfield picture at this time. You just can't overlook what he's been doing, even if a number of his hits have come off rookie and second-line pitchers. He came to play and wings a bat like Ted Williams."

Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves has the highest lifetime batting average of any active National Leaguer who has played in more than 500 games. It's .320.

PAUL HUMPHRY

Former CHS Athlete at Bliss College

Paul Humphry, who played reserve basketball at Circleville High School in his freshman year under the tutelage of William (Red) Courtney, was named today by Bliss College coach James Redman as co-captain elect of the Bookkeepers for next season.

Humphry, graduated from Columbus East High School, will be a sophomore at Bliss.

During his freshman year with the Bookkeepers, the 6-foot guard netted 238 points while finishing fifth in scoring. His 15.9 points per game was also fifth among the Blissmen.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Humphry of Columbus. He currently resides with his wife and family at 865 Premier Drive, Columbus.

The Bliss College coach is also a former Circleville resident and is a 20-year member of the local Knights of Pythias Lodge.

Assistant coach at Bliss is Charles Baxter, a teacher and junior high coach at Scioto School in the Teays Valley School District.

Pro Coach Both Beaten And Bitten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's bad enough to lose the game — but to get bitten by your pet dog.

That's what happened to Buddy Jeanette, coach of the Baltimore Bullets, after the St. Louis Hawks had beaten the Bullets 129-105 Friday night and evened the Western Division semifinals playoffs in the National Basketball Association at 1-1.

The Cincinnati Royals, behind a 40-point performance by Oscar Robertson, also squared the Eastern Division semi playoffs at 1-1 by edging the Philadelphia 76ers 121-120.

Player-coach Richie Guerin led the Hawks with 28 points in their home court romp over Baltimore. The Bullets rallied within six points at 87-81, but three straight baskets by Bob Pettit pulled the Hawks out of danger.

The Bullets' mascot, a dachshund, bit Jeanette on the wrist when the game ended.

Bosox Rattle Big Bats, But Injuries Are Plentiful

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Red Sox were hitting them to the left, to the right and mostly far, far away. The balls took off in the rarified atmosphere of Nogales, Mexico, and eventually bounced off cobble streets, into tumbleweeds and some landed in the crowd at the bull ring.

Some of the men who hit them landed in the hospital.

Normally, a 10 home run explosion is cause for rejoicing on any ball club. But there's no joy in Beantown today. The Red Sox, who collected 48 total bases on 16 hits in a 15-9 rout of Cleveland at Nogales Friday, must be wondering if the spring training trip was really worth it.

Two more Red Sox, including another pitcher, went on the injured list that is already bulging with Boston casualties — particularly pitchers.

Dave Morehead was the latest casualty, suffering a deep, painful bruise on his pitching shoulder when struck by a line drive off the bat of Max Alvis. Alvis also took out rookie catcher Mike Ryan, one of 10 Red Sox hitting home runs. Ryan left with a bruised knee after a collision at the plate.

In St. Petersburg, Fla. the New York Yankees broke up a couple of streaks with an 8-0 shutout of their cross-town playmates, the Mets.

Right-handers Mel Stottle-myre and Pete Ramos collaborated on a three-hitter, were backed by a 13-hit attack, including three by Tom Tresh, and broke the Mets' four-game winning string. It was only the second Yankee victory in 10 games.

And at Lakeland, Fla., a three-run homer by Detroit's George Smith beat Sandy Koufax and the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2. Koufax went eight innings.

Lanky Don Schwall of Pittsburgh had a three-hitter going through eight innings at West Palm Beach, Fla., but had to have help to get out of the ninth with a 3-2 edge over Milwaukee.

In the other baseball exhibitions, Baltimore blanked Washington 2-0 in a night game at Miami, the Chicago White Sox beat Minnesota 7-3 at Orlando, Fla., the Chicago Cubs bombed Los Angeles' Angels 13-3 at Mesa, Ariz., Cincinnati took Houston 6-3 at Tampa, Fla., and Kansas City edged Philadelphia 6-5 at Bradenton, Fla.

Registration For Baseball Program Set

All boys in the Teays Valley School District interested in playing baseball this summer are requested to register at the Ashville Elementary School Auditorium 7 p. m. April 1.

Parents are urged to accompany boys. The registration fee of $2.50 is to be paid at that time. This fee covers cost of insurance and baseball cap.

Registration is restricted to boys who will be 7 years of age on or before June 1 and those who will not be 16 on or before this date.

During the TV Youth Baseball League meeting at Ashville Council House, consideration was given to the entry of a Babe Ruth Team in the Columbus Babe Ruth League in the 16-17-18 age group. However, no action was taken in that a manager was not available to handle this age group.

The group decided to purchase team insurance from Ed Irwin at the same figures as last year. President Marvin Hicks appointed several committees to handle this particular phase of the baseball program.

The next meeting was set 8 p. m. April 7 at the Council House. Tryouts have been set for May 1 at Teays Valley High School.

Mid-Ohio OKs Malone as New Member

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Mid-Ohio Intercollegiate Conference Friday officially accepted Malone College of Canton into associate membership.

The action was taken at the conference's annual meeting.

Tom Morgan, athletic director at Malone, said the college's "acceptance into the Mid-Ohio Conference is another boost for us to develop an athletic program of which we all can be proud."

The MOC, formed in 1954, has five other member colleges, Ashland, Bluffton, Cedarville, Defiance and Wilmington.

Conference competition will account for 10 basketball games in the 1965-66 season with 15 others scheduled other colleges.

Malone College, one of 10 Quaker church-related colleges in the nation, is observing the 73rd anniversary of its founding in Cleveland and its eighty year in Canton under the liberal arts program. Current enrollment is 1,010 students.

NOTES 'N QUOTES

One thing about Spring — it comes when you need it most. Spring is more a state of mind than a season. Even snow doesn't bother us much in March. You know Winter's only trying to throw a last minute scare in you before Spring chases him over the nearest green-turning hill.

Spring is the time to get things done — aside from planting those new shrubs. It would be a real opportune time to look over those insurance policies you keep renewing and have long since forgotten just what they actually cover. Give us a call, we'll be glad to go over your coverage with you.

In Spring Nature gives vegetation the green signal . . . and Spring gives the go sign to other things — little girls on roller skates — boys in baseball caps kneeling into a game of marbles at the curb. It's the only time of year when that listless feeling you always have is legitimate — you call it Spring fever. And of course, "The best thing you can do for Spring fever is absolutely nothing."

We don't want to tax your money but it is tax time and if you've forgotten to get your report in yet, better hurry down and let us give you a hand. Why not check while you're here, on any insurance problem you may have. We can be helpful on that score too!

Boosters Pick Uniforms for Westfall Band

Members of the Westfall Booster Club have decided on the type of uniforms that will be purchased for the high school band.

Two types of uniforms were viewed when the club met this week. Members voted to purchase the suits offered by the Fechheimer Co. of Cincinnati.

Officials hope to have the uniforms for the 1965-66 school opening.

Band members will sell household products and a candy sale will be directed by Booster Club members to help pay for the uniforms.

THE basketball carry-in banquet will be held April 8.

Committees named were: kitchen — Mrs. Brice Connell, Mrs. Eugene Norris and Mrs. Leonard Liff; decoration—Mrs. Lloyd Minor, Mrs. Lawrence Reid and Mrs. Eugene Schleich, dining room — Mrs. Donald McDill, Mrs. John Gifford, Mrs. James Sykes, Mrs. C. H. Steinhäuser and Mrs. Helen Schleich.

Mrs. Patty Ogle requested financial assistance to send two cheerleaders to camp at Ohio Wesleyan University in June. The request was granted.

The Westfall Booster Football Mothers announced a dance to be held at Westfall on April 9 starting at 8:30 p. m. The Harold Wilson Orchestra will provide the music. A smorgasbord dinner has been scheduled for April 25.

Booster Club directors will meet April 21. The next general meeting will be held in May.

Tebbetts Prefers To Forget Showing

NOGALES, Mex. (AP)—Birdie Tebbetts put on his new sombrero and said "let's forget that one."

The Cleveland Indians' manager, who received the hat as a gift during a time out, was referring to Friday's 15-9 defeat by the Boston Red Sox, who belted 10 home runs with an assist from a strong wind blowing to left and center fields.

"Our guys were hitting line drives," said Tebbetts. "Anything that went up in the air went out—and the Red Sox hit plenty in the air."

Ohio High School Cagers Go into Champion Tilts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio boasted no unbeaten scholastic basketball teams today, but four better-than-fair quintets were set to joust for the state's 43rd championships.

Lima Shawnee and Minster, each with a 25-0 record and rated second and fourth, respectively, in the final Associated Press polls, were belted out of the running in Friday's semifinals before a combined 27,589 screaming fans in Ohio State's St. John Arena.

With the two big ones out of the way, today's title tussles were:

Class A, at 2 p. m.—Springboro Clearcreek's Panthers (25-1) vs. West Salem Northwestern's Wildcats (24-1).

Class AA, at 8 p. m.—Columbus South's Bulldogs (22-1) vs. Cincinnati St. Xavier's Bombers (24-2).

Springboro, with sharpshooting Mike Blevins scoring 22 points and All - Ohio George Burkhardt engineering the attack, wrecked Minster's high hopes, 77-62, with 15 of 16 free throws in the final quarter providing the difference.

West Salem Northwestern, 1958 Class A champion, ruined Albany's 26-1 Red Devils 50-41 in another odd one. The ex-champs had only four field goals in the last half, none in the closing quarter, but cashed 19 of 26 free throws in the final 16 minutes after getting only one of two in the opening half.

The Class A clash was expected to be a spectacular, with Springboro's speed and shooting ability against Northwestern's rugged defense which has held 18 of 25 free under 50 points.

Columbus South, in turning back Akron Central's 22-3 Wildcats, 65-50, displayed the best-balanced attack in the semifinals. Two Bulldogs scored 13 and two others had 10 — and the defense was good enough to hold the Rubber City team to five points in the opening quarter.

But Cincinnati St. Xavier — with a chance to set a lot of precedents — was the tournament's big surprise. The Bombers, who had knocked out tenth-ranked Dayton Chaminade and third-rated Urbana in the regionals, won going away over Lima Shawnee, 71-58. No team this year had come within 11 points of the all-winning Indians.

Virgil Winglewich, Minster—"The ball wouldn't go in the basket for us. Our shooting was below par, both from the field and the free throw line."

Albany's Bill Whaley — "We did not play well enough to win. But we have no alibis. We lost to the best club we've played all season."

Views on Television — Radio

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There is optimism in the Hollywood air and with good reason: the coming television season looks to be the healthiest in history for the major studios.

The film companies were late in entering television production, whether through lack of vision or fear of antagonizing theater owners. Almost too late, the studios discovered new economic facts of life. They could scarcely survive without the steady production for television to help support the risky business of making features.

Except for MCA, which entered television before it even owned a studio, the big companies went after the market in a sometimes sketchy manner.

That's true no more. Nearly all the studios have launched major campaigns to sell series. The results can be seen in the 1965-66 season.

The big success story is 20th Century-Fox. A season ago, it had nary a series on the networks. This year it scored with "Peyton Place," "Daniel Boone," and "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea" all slated for renewal, plus "Valentine's Day," which may make the grade.

Fox expects to have five more series on the networks in the coming season: "Lost in Space," (Guy Williams - June Lockhart); "Long, Hot Summer" (Edmond O'Brien); "Jesse James" (Chris Jones); "The Loner" (Lloyd Bridges); "Sally and Sam" (Gary Lockwood-Cynthia Pepper).

MGM lost "Mr. Novak" but renewed "Dr. Kildare" (in half-hours Monday and Tuesday), "Flipper" and "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." New series will be "Please Don't Eat the Daisies" with Mark Miller and Pat Crowley and a new Robert Horton western, "The Man from Sheehandah."

Warner Bros. is scoring a major comeback, despite the apparent losses of "No Time for Sergeants" and "Wendy and Me." The Burbank lot is fielding "The F.B.I." with Efrem Zimbalist Jr., while his onetime "Sunset Strip" pal, Roger Smith, is sailing as "Mister Roberts." Warners also has landed a pair of comedies: "F Troop" with Forest Tucker and Larry Storch and "Hank" with Dick Kallman.

Vacation: There's a word to start you dreaming ad scheming, plotting and planning.

Even though school won't be out for a couple of months, now is the time to put in the advance planning which will enable you to get the most fun out of those precious weeks called vacation.

This year more Ohioans will be taking an "outdoor-type" vacation — camping, fishing, boat-riding, water-skiing, swimming and just plain relaxing. Low cost and the chance for the entire family to enjoy some healthful fun amid some beautiful scenery have made outdoor summer vacations popular.

Why start planning now, when spring hasn't even put in a full-time appearance? It takes time to bring the whole family into agreement on where to go, how to get there and what to do while you're gone. Planning now will mean that you'll be able to get the accommodations you want, when you want them and that you'll have plenty of time to organize your vacation to provide maximum relaxation with minimum problems.

Where you vacation, what you do and how long you have to do it depend to a great degree on the condition of the family pocketbook. You can go tent-camping, buy or rent a camping trailer or travel trailer, or rent a cottage or cabin. Any accommodations you choose and any direction you go, you'll find plenty of picturesque vacation spots to suit your family and your budget, here in the Buckeye State, in surrounding states, and north-of-the-border in Canada.

Ohio this season will have almost 3,500 camping sites (space for almost 13,000 persons) scattered across three dozen park areas. In addition, the state provides several park sites where vacation cabins and lodges are available. These house-keeping cabins are usually modern, well-kept and reasonably priced — but because of their popularity reservations are usually filled early.

If an Ohio vacation fits your plans, drop a line to T. J. Frye, supervisor of recreation, Ohio Division of Parks and Recreation, 1500 Dublin Road, Columbus 12, Ohio. He'll send you such helpful folders as "Ohio's Parks," "Let's Go Camping," plus specific information on areas you're interested in. More Ohio information is available from the Department of Development, Box 1001, Columbus 15, Ohio.

Each vacation season many Buckeye residents point the family flivver toward the scenic lakes of the Muskingum Conservancy District, in the eastern part of the state. For the complete story on this pleasant and fishy vacation-land, often termed "The Edge of Paradise," write Walter Begland, Muskingum Watershed Conservancy District, New Philadelphia, Ohio.

In spite of a just-organized campaign to get Ohioans to "see beautiful Ohio first," many folks like to spend their outdoor vacation a bit further from home. For them, our neighboring states offer some outstanding vacation attractions.

Here's a list of addresses where needed "vacation - planning" information is available: Tourist and travel division, Commonwealth of Kentucky, Frankfort, Ky.; West Virginia Industry and Publicity Commission, State Capitol, Charleston, W. Va.; Pennsylvania Vacation and Recreation Bureau, Department of Commerce, Harrisburg, Pa.; Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing 1, Mich.; and Wisconsin Conservation Department, state office building, Madison, Wis.

For many Ohioans, vacation-time means a jaunt north of the border to the cool, blue-water-dotted climes of Canada. If such an outdoor vacation appeals to your family, complete information is available by contacting the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity, Parliament Building, Toronto, Canada. Maps, brochures, and suggestions on other Canadian provinces may be secured by writing the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, Ottawa, Canada.

Even though you haven't made any definite decision on where your vacation will take you this year, now is the time to begin planning for it.

With proper planning, this outdoor vacation could end up as a memorable trip the family will remember for years.

Question, Answer Column

EDITORS NOTE: This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the district office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service. It is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — Is it true that up to $200 in dividends may now be received tax free when a joint return is filed?

A — On joint returns, the husband and the wife are each entitled to receive up to $100 in dividends tax free. This is the $200 figure you referred to. Please note, that if all the dividends came from stock owned by the husband or the wife alone, only $100 in dividends may be excluded.

The increase in the amount of dividends that may be excluded from income was part of the 1964 tax law.

Q — I've read where certain state and local taxes are no longer deductible but you have just come out with a table taxpayers can use as a guideline for deducting state taxes. Can I use the table? What can't I deduct this year that I deducted last year?

A — The table you are referring to lists the average state sales tax deduction by income bracket.

You may use this table, if one is issued for your state, as a guideline to follow in deducting the state sales tax you paid last year. The deduction can only be taken when you itemize deductions.

The state and local taxes that you generally can no longer deduct are those on alcohol and tobacco, automobile license plates, drivers licenses and certain other miscellaneous taxes. The state and local taxes you pay on your real estate, personal property and income are still deductible.

Q I paid the medical bills for my father last year when he had a stroke. He is over 65 and I'm entitled to claim him as a dependent. How much of these medical bills can I deduct? How about drugs?

A — If you furnish over half your father's support, you may deduct in full medical expense and medicine and drug costs you pay for him that are not reimbursed by insurance or by other members of your family. His medical expenses and drug costs are not subject to the limitations on these expenses for those who are younger than 65.

Q — I send $75 a month over seas to support my parents who live in Italy. I'm sure this provides the bulk of their support. Can I claim them as dependents?

A — It depends on whether they are U. S. citizens. If your parents are not U. S. citizens you cannot claim them as dependents even if you furnished their chief support. To qualify as a dependent, a person, generally must be either a citizen or resident of the U. S. or a resident of Canada, Mexico, the Panama Canal Zone or the Republic of Panama for some part of the tax year. Also, of course, they must meet the other tests of dependency.

Q — Last year I suffered an on-the-job accident. As a result I now collect a disability pension from Social Security. Do I have to pay tax on this?

A — No you don't. Social Security benefits, whether you receive them because of age, disability or as a dependent, are not taxable income.

Q — A fellow teacher told me that when you pay a substitute to take your place you can deduct the cost on federal tax returns. Is this so?

A — Yes, you can deduct these costs. However, if you pay a substitute because you are sick and consequently receive sick pay, you can't deduct the payments to the substitute if you are excluding the sick pay.

Q — I understand that the costs of certain types of work clothing and uniforms are deductible. I'm a waitress. Can I deduct my uniform costs? How about the special shoes I need since I'm on my feet all day?

A — The cost of your uniforms will be deductible if they are required by your employer and are of a type that can't be worn off the job. On the shoes, if they can be worn on other occasions than at work, then they will not be deductible.

Q — My employer hasn't handed out any W-2's yet, and he said he isn't sure when his accountant will have these prepared. I've kept the stubs from my paychecks and know how much I've earned. Can I file my return now and send the W-2 later?

A — No, you should wait until you receive your W-2 before you file. By law, employers are required to give their employees their W-2's by January 31.

Q — Practically all of my income came from Social Security last year. Since this is not taxable do I still have to file a return?

A — Yes, you do if your income, other than Social Security, was $600 or more if you were under 65 years of age and $1,200 or more if you were 65 or over on the last day of your tax year.

Q — It will be to our advantage to file separate returns this year. Since my wife had little income and I provided more than half of her support, can I claim her as a dependent?

A — No, you cannot. She takes her personal exemption of $600 on her own return. Under law, husbands and wives are not considered each other's dependents. You may claim the exemption for your wife on your separate return only if she had no gross income, and was not the dependent of another taxpayer.

A 1961 foreign model sports car crashed into an auto salvage yard south of Circleville 1:45 p. m. yesterday, injuring the driver.

She said she pulled to the berm of the road, lost control in the soft ground and then veered into the yard.

Suffering facial lacerations and abrasions of the knee, she was taken to Berger Hospital for treatment.

Prosecutor Says Dunlap Erred in Pleading Guilty

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Leroy Dunlap, convicted in absentia of first-degree murder 45 years ago, but granted a new trial, would have gone free if he hadn't pleaded guilty to first-degree manslaughter Friday, said Summit County Prosecutor James V. Barbuto.

"I didn't have the evidence, witnesses—nothing for a first-degree murder conviction and I would have had to recommend letting the old guy go free," Barbuto said in an interview.

Dunlap, 64, a grandfather who has spent more than two-thirds of his life running from the law, was convicted of the 1920 holdup slaying of waiter Steve Bosso in Akron.

He escaped during the trial and the jury returned a guilty verdict without a recommendation for mercy, making the death penalty mandatory.

Last October, Dunlap was arrested at a soldiers' home in Washington, D. C., where he had been living since his retirement from the Air Force in 1959. He went by the name Harry Walker in the service.

Friday's trial was supposed to have been a retrial of the old murder charge. All transcripts of the original trial had been destroyed and the witnesses who could be located had hazy memories.

Defense attorney Fred Lombardi said the manslaughter charge was asked "because odds were against getting an acquittal on the first-degree murder charge."

The three-judge panel accepted Dunlap's guilty plea and Judge John M. Kelly set sentencing for Tuesday. Dunlap, who asked probation, could be sentenced to 1 to 20 years' imprisonment.

Barbuto told the court in his opening statement he could prove Dunlap had a gun when he went into the restaurant with four other men. But the prosecutor said he could not prove that the killing occurred during an attempted robbery.

"If the defense attorneys had come back at me, school would have been out," Barbuto said later.

The original murder charge was based on a contention death occurred during "commission of a felony."

"Let this 64-year-old soldier return to the old soldiers home and live out his life," said defense attorney Joseph Miller.

Judge Kelly said one of Dunlap's companions "served 13 years in prison and didn't pull the trigger. I think we have to consider it against this background."

Two others served prison terms also. The fourth escaped with Dunlap and was never caught but died in 1928.

Dunlap has a wife, son and two grandchildren in St. Louis.

Spring Continues To Shun Entrance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold weather persisted in much of the nation today from the Rockies to the Appalachians but there appeared a chance of moderating temperatures in some areas.

The general weather picture in most of the nation was not springlike, with unseasonable cold and snow covering wide areas a week after the end of the winter season.

Below-zero cold again gripped areas in Minnesota and Michigan and the mercury dipped to near zero in northwestern suburbs of Chicago. However, temperatures which have ranged up to 35 degrees below normal during the 10-day cold spell in the Midwest moderated to between 5 to 20 degrees under seasonal levels.

State Department Probe Into Aides' Minds To End

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department has promised to call off tests that probe its employees' minds and sex life.

The decision was relayed by Rep. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., who had planned a special investigation into "an insidious and illegal search of the human mind."

A State Department letter promising an end to such psychological tests came, Gallagher said, after he announced his planned probe.

Gallagher listed these as some of the questions employees were supposed to mark off as true or false:

My father was a good man.
My sex life is satisfactory.
I enjoy reading love stories.
I believe in the second coming of Christ.

I believe women ought to have as much sexual freedom as men.

I loved my mother.

I believe there is a God.

Once in a while I laugh at a dirty joke.

I wish I were not bothered by thoughts about sex.

And so on for 566 such questions, said Gallagher.

In addition, he added, the employees — in other agencies as well as the State Department — have been asked to give written answers to such questions as whether they are "troubled" by: deciding whether I'm really in love; in love with someone of a different religion; too deeply involved in a love affair; being too inhibited in sex matters.

William J. Crockett, deputy undersecretary of state for administration, explained that in medical examinations "we have had a policy of using various types of psychological testing wherever it is indicated this testing might assist in reaching the correct diagnosis and in determining the proper treatment for the individual."

Crockett noted there have been a lot of questions raised as to whether "this requirement was an appropriate one for a government agency to impose upon its personnel."

The State Department apparently decided it wasn't, for Crockett promised that "effective immediately we have discontinued this policy."

Instead, he said, the department will require employees that appear to need such help to get psychiatric counseling.
